From Wet Nursing to Human Milk Bank– India Case Study

Published On: June 16, 2026 | Pages: 001 - 006

Author(s): Suresh K*

Wet nursing, the act of a woman breastfeeding another's infant, is a deeply rooted practice in India. While historically tied to royal alliances, patriarchal exploitation, and survival, the modern landscape has shifted dramatically to a Human Milk Bank (HMB). An HMB is a specialized service that recruits, screens, collects breast milk from volunteer donors, then paste ...
